Keeping Standards High HMX's Affiliation with NAAMM

The National Association of Architectural Metal Manufacturers (NAAMM) is a trade association representing manufacturers of a wide range of metal products used chiefly in commercial and industrial building construction. The Hollow Metal Manufacturers Association (HMMA) is a subdivision within NAAMM that represents the hollow metal manufacturers. There are over 60 members within the HMMA division.

HMMA serves the building construction industry by:

- setting standards for its members that are essential for the production of high quality, high performance hollow metal products.
- developing technical literature on hollow metal products that provide a credible, objective benchmark that specifiers have come to trust.
- leveraging it's Technical Committee to organize and execute the joint testing of fire doors and frames.

HMX has been a proud member of NAAMM and HMMA since 2006.

Robin Carey

HMX Territory Manager

Robin has been here at HMX for six years. You probably already know her, but in case you don't, here is a little bit about her. She has been in our industry for over seven years, mostly in sales. Robin likes to travel, and it's one of the reasons she got into sales, to see new places and meet new people within her territory. She first got a taste of the travel bug when she spent a year after high school living in Florence, Italy and traveling throughout Europe.

As an HMX Territory Manager, Robin handles quotes, technical consultation and order processing. Her territory includes the Southwest (AZ and NM), CO, ID, MT, TX, WY, the Midwest & East Coast. To top it off, Robin organizes charity events for HMX to reach out to the community.

Robin lives in Phoenix with her husband, Chris; her two-year old daughter, Kennedy; two dogs and a cat. She also has another baby on the way due in April. In her spare time, Robin likes to hang out with her family and friends, attempts to grow a garden and educates herself on the latest wines.
