Delbert's Corner:

Ask Delbert for a clear answer to that nagging question or to learn something new.

Question: I recently read a hardware specification that called for "door protection plates to cover the door's face and edges." Am I reading this correctly?

Answer: Yes, you are. Some projects, including hospital applications, will use these products to protect the corners and edges of doors from damage caused by carts or gurneys. When used in this type of application, there are often hardware preps for hinges and/or latches which are dimension critical. HMX will manufacture these products to your specifications, preparing the material for the appropriate hardware cut-outs at the locations you specify.

I hope this answers your question and you are invited to contact your Territory Manager for pricing or additional details. By the way, if you do find yourself using one of these wrap-around protection plates - DON'T FORGET TO UNDERSIZE THE DOOR'S WIDTH in the area where the plate will mount.

Where's Delbert?

Hint: Delbert had to get a passport.....

Building Clues:

- Construction: Stainless Steel
- Construction began in 1999
- Cost: $5,802,729

Interesting fact: World famous architect had to audition first with a bus stop before being given the building job.

City Clues:

- Established in medieval times.
- Birthplace of Princess Caroline Elizabeth of Great Britain.
- Home of Peter the Wild Boy, an orphan who grew up in the forests. Walked on all fours and never learned to speak. Taken to London for research.
- Zoo features 6 minute boat ride on an artificial African river where the animals mingle with the boats. Exhibits are built to let visitors feel a part of the exhibit.
- Origin for Britain's House of Windsor.
